

photons redshift because they lose energy as they cover larger volumes with their volume their wavelength covers larger volumes of space and so they have not less energy than other photons