

heat is directly proportional to time of contact and is directly proportional to the kinetic energy lost per second