

History of the Ancient Egyptians

Research Provided to You By Andrew Nassif

Who were the Ancient Egyptians?

The people of Ancient Egypt were much like people today, they were farmers with very fertile land and vast majority of rivers. Many of them built mud brick homes and buildings and had jobs such as: Field Hands, Farmers, Craftsmen, Scribes, and Nobles.

What Materials Did they Have?

Ancient Egyptians had materials such as Linen, Leather, Kohl, Papyrus, Stone, Yeast, Herbs, Mud Clay, Palm, Gold, and many precious metals.

Ancient Games

Games in Ancient Egypt include: Early forms of chess, playing of ancient harps, and using gall bladders of goats to play early forms of soccer and handball.

Nobleman

Nobleman in Ancient Egypt, were the second to the Pharaoh and were believe to have the ability to talk to the Gods, they were the upper-richer class in ancient Egypt, meaning they had much more money and much more privileges than being a servant or a farmer.

People of Ancient Egypt

Ancient Egyptians were either Hebrew (Jewish), or Wiccans (Used Magic) but the majority weren't Jewish, so they treated the Jews as lower slaves or servants. Slavery of Jewish people began hundreds of years after the death of King Joseph, who was the first Jewish Pharaoh. The story is written using hieroglyphics and codified in pyramids.

Black Land & Red Land

- Black Land was what Ancient Egyptians used to classify the fertile land in Egypt.
- Red Land classified the barren desert of Ancient Egypt.

Mummification

Ancient Egyptians put the organs in different jars and the body was covered in linen or fine cloth, then they buried them with all their treasures, this was a fine way of burying the dead.

Sources:

- ^ "Chronology". Digital Egypt for Universities, University College London. Archived from the original on 16 March 2008. Retrieved 25 March 2008.
- ^ a b Mokhtar, G. (1990). General History of Africa. California, USA: University of California Press. pp. 161-163. ISBN 0-520-06697-9.