

if masses and nonexistence are splitting the universe into two then half for existence and half for nonexistence and if so then the amount of electromagnetic waves is huge and its what is used to form the rest of existence or masses